ANNUALS

Judge: Professor E. W. Withers

The Journalism Foundation

Washington-Lee University

Lexington, Virginia

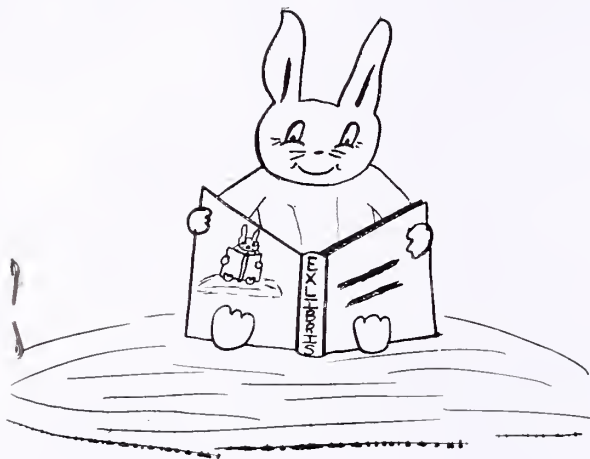

Group III. The Confederate. Stonewall High School. Clearbrook.

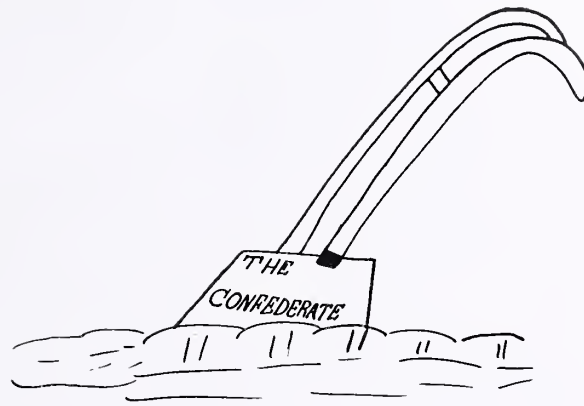

The Confederate is one of the most expensive annuals in any group; yet, unfortunately, it is not so handsome or individual or well edited and effective as several others.

Inside its handsome and expensive covers are badly printed endsheets and throughout the rest of the book there are poorly trimmed pages, wrong font letters and defective letters, fingerprints, and work that is inferior to that of a vast majority of yearbooks. Photographs certainly are not inspired and they are poorly reproduced, the fault lying with one or all of these: the photographer, the engraver, and the printer. The layout and arrangement of pages is awkwardly done, the hand lettering usually detracts from the pages, and the annual itself is amateurishly produced. Nor has the copy been carefully edited; there are careless abbreviations in the too-detailed table of contents, misspellings in the Calendar of Events (calender and iniation, for example), and one wonders about proper names like JoJbe (page 49). The class poem, will, and prophecy are not of good high school standards and the pages of jokes are most doubtful value. So are the two pages given to scenes and acts of the senior play. Club and activity copy is too general and lifeless and headlines are of different sizes and type faces.

A much more effective book might be produced if the 1948 staff were to study the best annuals and use more imagination.

Foreword

In this, the fifth volume of the CONFEDERATE, we, the Seniors of '47 have tried to our utmost ability to give you a record of our past achievements. Our yesterdays are gone; they were our childhood days of inquisitiveness, our grade-school days of foundation buildings, our days of the past, linking us with the tomorrows. It has been our purpose in this annual to give you a silhouette of perfection against the back-ground of progress. May you look again and again in this book in the years to come and glance at the record of achievements we want to leave as stepping-stones to better to-morrows.

Recognizing the part which rural activities have played in our development, we have chosen Farm Life as the theme for the art in this edition.

Mrs. Lucille Kersey, our sponsor, has been with us three years and during that time has been our guiding light and led us to our final goal—"graduation." With her helpful and enduring ways she has been the corner stone of our senior class. To our sponsor we leave respect and admiration for a job well done.

Mrs. Kersey graduated from John Marshall High School in Richmond, Virginia. She then attended Westhampton of the University of Richmond graduating in 1922 with a B. A. degree. She taught for five years at Maury High School, Norfolk, Virginia. Attending summer sessions at Madison and the University of Virginia, she holds the Collegiate Professional certificate majoring in modern languages and social studies.

To prove that nice things come in small packages take a look at one of our shortest seniors. Peggy, who has made a place for herself in the activities of the Senior Class, is the Business Manager of the Confederate. She was also softball manager and received her school letter for her work in this task. We wish her luck when June comes strolling in and Peggy goes strolling out.

JOHN HERBERT COLE

Our one and only quiz-kid who knows all the answers may be seen at all times with his pencil on his ear ready for use.

Besides his athletic ability, Johnny has been chosen as the wittiest senior. When a subscription for an annual is wanted, ask Johnny how to get it.

BETTY LORRAINE BODEN

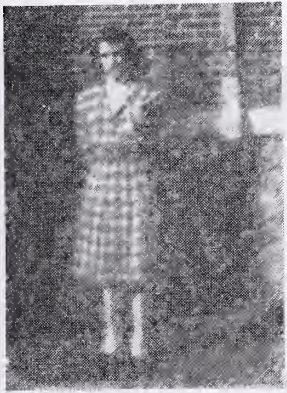

To be sure, here is one of our most popular seniors with flying, copper-tinted locks and a well-known glint in her eye. You can see her racing off at any spare moment to see her heart-throb, Billy Lewis, who might be visiting in the halls of Stonewall.

Having the title of biggest flirt, she does her bit to make life a special round of heartaches for the stronger sex on the campus. We wish her the very best of everything in whatever vocation she undertakes.

HILDA MARIE BOYD

"Well, I'll be" is none other than "Vicky," another one of those senior blondes with her official by-word. During her years at Stonewall "Vicky" has acquired a commercial course with some practice in the office.

She has busied herself quite a bit as Literary Editor of the Confederate and when assigned to a task "Vicky" doesn't stop until the task is finished.

HERBERT BROOKE TAYLOR

Time was, my chickadees, when a screen idol had to possess a million-dollar profile and long curly eye-lashes. All that has changed because we have a guy right here that should be in Hollywood, pronto.

He has done some distinguished photographing for the Confederate this year and we must not leave his praise unsung. He is a lovable guy, with romantic eyes and a winning smile. You must go deep to know the real Taylor. He's very sensitive, a little high strung, full of restless energy and a searching seriousness that belies his easy manner. That's Herbert for you, very nice and extra special. The best of everything to a grand fellow.

LUCY WILT BRAGG

Dancing feet and flashing brown eyes can best describe our neat looking senior, "Babs." With no man shortage to worry about she can settle back, relax, and breathe her favorite by-word, "Good-o."

After receiving her "walking-papers" in June, she expects to secure a position as a stenographer in the business world. With her sparkling personality, looks, and a main interest, we know success will lend a helping hand.

BETTY LOU CARPENTER

This gal is none other than "Bets" who has been acting as Club Editor for the annual. She doesn't care much for dancing, but prefers waltzing to soft music, complete with moonlight and a broad shoulder.

"Bets" was chosen wittiest of the seniors and if you ever meet her, you will know that she lives up to that title.

1945-46: Member: Social Club, Glee Club

1946-47: Member: Glee Club, Confederate Staff.

HELEN JANE CRIM

Among the most industrious and studious seniors is Helen Crim, that girl with the pleasant smile and willingness to help.

Besides being very busy working on the annual she participates in the 4-H Club. Without her help and patient ways our senior year would not have been a complete success.

Here's luck to one of our most outstanding seniors.

NANCY ELIZABETH INSKIP

If a whiz goes by and just misses you, there is no doubt that it is "Skip", the gal with light-brown hair and very quick eyes. She is always busy doing something if nothing but chewing gum. We shall never forget her in "Mama's Baby Boy."

VERNON SHAMBLIN REXRODE

"Hi" who spoke? That blonde-haired senior boy who has been around quite a bit attending thirteen different schools and settling down at Stonewall for his senior year. Bucky has made a big hit at Stonewall, not to mention a certain Junior girl and becoming a star player on the 1946 football team. This muscle man stands in our popularity list as most studious, most popular, most apt-to-succeed and best all-around senior boy. After Bucky graduates he'll be packing off to college to study engineering.

- 1943-46: Attended Jefferson High School
- 1946-47: President: Social Club, Member: Annual Staff, Football, Basketball, Baseball.

ANNABELLE JOBE

This athletic creature as refreshing as a glass of cool orange juice is none other than Annabelle. A wonderful athlete and to prove it she reigns as the most athletic girl in the senior class. She loves softball, bowling and any other sport that spells strenuous exercise. There aren't many humans who can possess beauty and brains all at the same time, but you have just met one. Whatever luck and success we wish her will not be half as much as she deserves.

ANNA LOUISE KERNS

Being of special make-up we can place this super-looking blonde in a class all by herself. Quiet and reserved, she is often seen slaving over her Spanish homework and not enjoying it, so I've heard.

Holding the position of Senior Class Treasurer has kept her busy and she is credited with success in writing our class history. Luck and success is our motto for her future.

WINIFRED LOUISE KNIGHT

Claiming the title of best-looking senior and being class prophet has kept Knight quite busy, besides keeping her heart-throb out of another woman's claws.

Her ability is unlimited. We wish this lass the very best of everything and send her off in June with a stamp of approval from the halls of Stonewall.

DORIS DEAN MORRISON

A medium brown bob, wide gray eyes and plenty of what it takes, is a pleasing edition of our most popular senior who loves everything from dancing under the stars to a coke in a drive-in.

"Deanie" is strictly not the athletic type, but she loves to watch the athletes at work and will cheer heartily for them. She has also done a splendid job as class testatrix and has chosen as her future career, "modelling". In whatever vocation she might choose, we wish her the best of luck.

In her junior year as class president she led us in making the Junior-Senior banquet a grand success.

JOHN THOMAS STICKLES, JR.

Digging down deep into our group of seniors we come up with a boy who has done a great deal to further the success of our years at Stonewall. Not only is he our most athletic senior, but he is president of the senior class. Being active in sports he displays a large amount of school letters on his broad chest.

Although he hasn't decided what to do when he graduates in June we wish him luck in whatever he undertakes.

Class History '47

How quickly the time has passed since we were freshmen! We remember the help and counsel of Mrs. Garland Hopkins during those beginning days.

In our sophomore year our class had decreased in number but not in pep and spirit. Surviving our many quarrels we maintained our unity sufficiently to present a worth-while program for the observance of Navy Day. Gifts of 'pop' and other things too numerous to mention were presented to the Seniors. Building up a bank account for our future needs as juniors and seniors occupied much of our time. A substantial sum was realized by getting magazine subscriptions and by the sale of various articles. The "Big Event" of the year was the Easter party.

At the beginning of 1945-46 we found ourselves settled in the library as dignified Juniors. Because of overcrowded conditions, at the request of Mr. Harper we moved into the auditorium for our home room and spent the remainder of the year in the state of "Lost and Found". Until the present time we are still in search of lost articles.

Months were spent in preparation for the big event of every junior year, our banquet which was held at the Shenandoah Hotel in Martinsburg, West Virginia. To finance this, we sold potato chips, pop corn, candy, and hot dogs. Another highlight of interest was the selecting of class rings which were presented to us at the banquet. With all of this behind us we were in sight of our goal—Graduation!

With much cheering we crossed the threshold of Room Five where we were to spend our last year. Knowing that we were so close to graduation and also that we had many things to do, we started work on our annual, slaving to make it a huge success. The next stepping stone was the Senior play and last, but not least, Graduation, our long awaited victory.

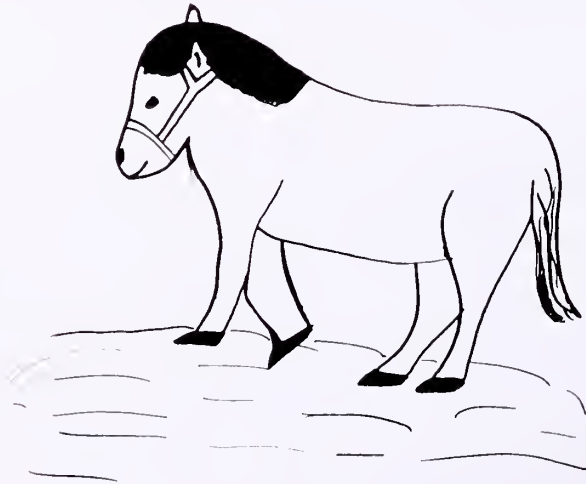

Allthrough our high school years we have had students to come into our class and many to go out, but from this day into the future, none can come in and none can go out.

The Class Poem

Lingering memories from out of the past
Of our teachers, principal, and those
Who've helped us to the very last
Shall be remembered, each and all
When we think of the halls of old faithful
Stonewall.

On speedy wings the years have flown
Since first we came to Stonewall "Hi"
Through which we've worked to near our aim
Until at last we say "Good-bye."

MARIE BOYD

The Class Song

TUNE: — "Auld Lang Syne"

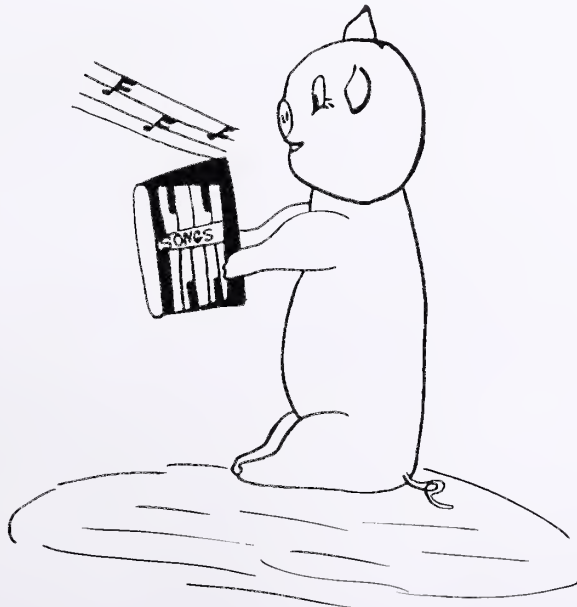

From Stonewall High we now depart,
Our minds with memories filled;
With all the joyous times we've had
But now we'll say adieu.

Chorus:

Farewell, Farewell to ole' Stonewall
We have to part from thee.
Farewell, Farewell to ole' Stonewall
The school we loved so dear.

From dear Stonewall we have to leave
As in life's work we go—
With hopes that we will all do well
We bid our last farewell.

Class Prophecy '47

Arriving in New York, weary and worn out because of a long trip from Hollywood I had decided to go straight to the hotel for a rest. Just then a familiar face appeared in the crowd. Whom should I run into but Betty Carpenter my old school mate of Stonewall High School. She insisted that I spend the afternoon at her home which was only a few blocks away. While sipping coffee by the fireplace, I told her about our old friends of Stonewall, whom she had not seen for twenty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Rexrode, the former Janet DeHaven are well established in the firm of J. D. Derflengers Motorcycle Company, specializing in a motorcycle built for three (Mother, Dad, and Junior).

Herbert Taylor, a graduate of V. P. I. where he studied to be an orchardist is the owner of a vast estate in the Shenandoah Valley.

Marie Boyd has departed from the J. C. Penney Company as office girl and is now the private secretary of Van Johnson.

Lucy Bragg settled down as a secretary and after having many love affairs, has returned her heart to an old school mate, realizing that an old flame never dies.

Mrs. William Lewis, the former Miss Betty Boden, is now starring as leading lady in the play, "Flat Foot Floosie," now appearing at the Stonewall Theater.

Anna Louise Kerns, owner of the "Shangles Fur Shop" on Fifth Ave., is now in New York. (She guarantees furs from pure polecats).

Nancy Inskip after several attempts at marriage has finally hooked her one and only, Carlton, and they are spending their honeymoon cruising around the world.

Betty Owens, after completing her Spanish course at the University of California has made several trips to Spain and Cuba and upon returning to the United States will spend her summers in New York and her winters in Florida.

Dorothy Morrison has studied voice for several years and now is the star singer of the Metropolitan Opera Company and is touring South America.

Wondering why people find Alaska so interesting Peggy Anderson has just returned from a visit there and has opened up a dog kennel three miles south of the city of Clearbrook, Virginia.

With a brilliant softball career in college, Annabelle Jobe has now become softball coach and girls Physical Education Instructor at Jordan Springs University.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stickles, the former Miss Jean Rudolph, and son Thomas III have just returned to their home on Happy Creek, after spending several weeks in England. Mr. Stickles is the Manager of the Coca Cola Bottling Company. Their son will resume his studies at Duke this fall.

After many years of hard playing, John Cole has become pitcher for the Washington Redskins. His son, John, Jr. was chosen the biggest flirt of the Senior Class of 1967.

Helen Crim is now Superintendent of nurses at the Columbus Hospital, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Doris Morrison has become wealthy and is operating a shop for Exclusive Beach Wear, Miami Beach, Florida.

Class Will of '47

In the knowledge that our scholastic days will soon be over, be it remembered that, we, the class of nineteen hundred forty-seven of Stonewall High School, of the town of Clearbrook, State of Virginia, United States of America, do hereby make our last will and testament.

We do bequeath to the understated heirs the following:

To our principal, Mr. Harper, the seniors leave a reservation at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, Room No. 13, where he is to go to recover from the shock of knowing that the worst is over, we made the grade.

To Mrs. Kersey, our sponsor and adopted mother, we leave the money to take a long rest in Florida, after all she has put up with in '47 and to complete the trip an extra amount of luck and a lot of best wishes from her Seniors.

To Mrs. Helen S. Conner, we leave an extra warm room and a silver fox coat to keep her nice and comfortable on cold winter days.

To Miss Kendig, we leave barrels and barrels of memories and a six months vacation in Europe with all expenses paid by us.

To Mrs. Robert Troupe, a hope chest of good luck and the privilege to say, "I had them as Juniors and that was enough."

To Miss Ellis, we bequeath the privilege of going through the coming years as their sponsor with the class she has now and of seeing them depart as happy as we hope we look.

To Mr. Winfrey, we leave the privilege of using his navy slang although we do not understand it.

To "Doc" Morrison, the seniors leave an autographed record of all the memories he helped create in years gone by and the privilege of coming to visit Stonewall at any time.

To Elementary teachers we leave the Stonewall building free of High School Students by 1950.

To the incoming Freshmen class we leave some of the beams of our radiant faces so there will be a certain amount of brightness in this temple of learning and also, a great deal of luck.

To the approaching sophomores, the seniors leave their ability to love, honor, grow bigger and better tadpoles than we did when we were sophomores studying biology.

Betty Owens transfers her ability to know all the angles of keeping a library in tip-top shape to Betty Carper.

The seniors leave to Bobby Lewis and Grover Teets the privilege of saying, "We graduated from Stonewall."

Nancy Inskip bequeaths her Spanish II and History books to anyone wanting them.

Tommy Stickles would like to leave to Jack Patton, Jack Lowman, and Joseph McAboy his mischievous ways plus his way with women.

Annabelle Jobe wills her athletic looks as well as ability to Betty Trenary and Janet DeHaven.

Betty Carpenter leaves her giggles and smile to Betty Pugh and Hilda Henry, so they can keep life cheery in ole Stonewall during '48.

Betty Boden and Johnny Cole leave to Lewis Duvall and Ruth Berg their ability to flirt with ease and grace.

Jean Rudolph leaves to Dixie Hager, Colleen Ware and Betty Franks her ability to keep 'em guessin' (meaning men, of course.)

Dorothy Morrison and Helen Crim leave to the unsuspecting editor of the Confederate next year, an extra pair of eyes, ears, hands and feet, complete with a giant size of Bayer aspirin tablets and plenty of H₂O.

Peggy Anderson and Marie Boyd will to all the second year shorthand students their solemn statement, imbedded in A's, "Look before you Leap."

Doris Morrison and Winnie Knight leave to Frances Kerns their desire and talent minus the ability to waltz on skates.

In witness hereof, I, Doris Dean Morrison, the testatrix, have set my hand and seal hereto this day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven (1947).

DORIS DEAN MORRISON (Seal)

The Student Cooperation Association Council is made up of the four officers of the Student Cooperative Association and a representative from each of the high school rooms. This group meets regularly once each week.

Some of the objectives of the Student Cooperative Association Council of 1946-47 are as follows:

- To sponsor a clean-up campaign throughout the school year.
- To arrange a schedule of programs for the monthly S. C. A. meetings.
- To plan a special Christmas program for the high school.
- To give welfare baskets to the needy at Christmas.
- To raise money for the S. C. A. treasury.

One of our main objects this year is to improve the general appearance of the class rooms. To accomplish this we have sponsored a series of clean-up campaigns throughout the entire school. At the end of each month we have awarded a prize to the grade school room and the high school room having the best appearance for that month.

Monogram Club

President	JOHN COLE
Vice-President	ANNABELLE JOBE
Secretary	BETTY BODEN
Treasurer	JAMES CRIM

All members of the Monogram Club are proud letter-wearers even though it isn't a simple task to undergo all the requirements in order to become an official member of this outstanding club. The purpose is to distinguish the students in the high school who have played a certain number of football quarters, or baseball innings or have secured a total of eighteen points awarded for extra curricular activities.

Behind the title of the Monogram Club there are dances, parties and many other exciting school events which make the club all the more interesting. Before you enter the Monogram Club there is a two-day goatting period, followed by a rigid initiation. Then you are a full-fledged member.

Paper Club

The chief aim of this organization is to publish one mimeographed paper containing school news each six-weeks period. It also provides experience for the students in writing news articles and stories and teaches them other fundamentals of newspaper work. The members of the staff are chosen according to their experience, ability and willingness to work.

The purpose of 'El Club Espanol' is to provide opportunities for practice in speaking Spanish and to create an atmosphere of friendship with our Spanish-speaking neighbors of the world. Our aims include a study of the customs and countries of our Spanish friends through correspondence with them, the use of films, music and plays, the securing of native speakers for our programs and reading Spanish newspapers and periodicals.

Mr. E. H. Swenson who has worked with young people in Argentina for twenty years was our guest speaker in November. Christmas music and customs were presented in December, La Pinata furnishing much fun. Vamanos!

Football

Games were scheduled with Berryville, Boyce, Stephens City, Hedgesville, and Shepherdstown on home and home bases. The season was a bit unsuccessful for the Rebels for they were unable to cop but one lone game this year against Berryville.

Due to the lack of experienced players we had to start training a large number of new members for the task ahead of them. Constant changes were made until the squad was strong enough to hold their opponents to a hard fought game before having the contest sewed up.

Baseball

Coach B. R. Harper has scheduled games with the following schools for the season of 1946-1947:—Berryville, Gainesboro, Middletown, Gore, Boyce, Stephens City.

Because of the loss of players, due to graduation, this year's team will need patching up a little, but all in all the team does not expect to be left holding the bag. There are six lettermen back hoping to see plenty of action along with the new members.

Laugh and the World Laughs With You

An elderly lady was asking a salesgirl about instructions for knitting a dog sweater.

"And how big is your dog?" asked the girl.

After the lady had struggled, unsuccessfully, to describe the dog, the salesgirl suggested, "Why don't you bring him in?"

"Oh, but I couldn't do that," the distressed lady retorted, "I want it to be a surprise."

Aunt: "If you've lost your dog, why don't you put an ad about him in the newspapers?"

Joe: "Oh, that wouldn't do any good, he can't read."

Helen: "Why did the little moron fill up the gymnasium with water?"

Bucky: "You tell me."

Helen: "Because he heard that the coach was going to send in a sub."

Busy: "Why did your wife save all those burnt-out light bulbs during the war?"

Dizzy: "Oh, she was keeping them to use during black-outs."

"So you're a salesman, George. I suppose you stand behind the products you sell?"

"Not on your life. I sell mules."

In addition to his brilliant mind, President Woodrow Wilson had also a quick wit. One day while he was engaged in an animated conversation, his glasses slipped perilously near to the end of his nose.

"Your glasses are almost on your mouth," warned his companion.

"Oh, that's all right," retorted the President. "I always like to see what I'm talking about!"

John: "You mean you took your girl out and only spent three dollars on her?"

Herbert: "Well, it was all she had."

Nancy: "My sister takes up English, Russian,

German, Italian, French and Spanish."

Bucky: "My, she must be smart."

Nancy: "Not particularly—she runs an elevator."

Salesman (after a long wait): "I thought your mother was at home."

Boots: "She is, but I don't live in this house."

Hilda: "Have you decided where you're going for your vacation?"

Betty: "No, not yet. My husband wants us to take a trip around the world, but I'd rather go someplace else."

Mr. Harper: "This makes the fifth time I've had to ask you to stay after school this week. Now what have you to say for yourself?"

Leroy: "I'm glad it's Friday, Sir."

Mrs. Conner (giving lesson on the law of gravity): "I want you all to understand that it is the law of gravity that keeps us on earth."

Frances: "How did we stay on earth before the law was passel?"

Rex: "Why is a dog hotter in the summer than in the winter?"

Winnie: "Because in the winter he wears only a coat, but in the summer he wears a coat and pants."

When Doyle joined the police force, the sergeant said, "You're on the night beat—from here to that red light and back."

They didn't hear from Doyle for two days. Finally he showed up at the station house.

"Where have you been?" thundered the sergeant. "I told you your beat was from here to that red light."

"You did," said Doyle ruefully, "but that red light was on the back of a truck."

Laugh and the World Laughs With You

Upon learning that a certain doctor in town charged five dollars for a first visit but only two dollars for the second, a miserly old man decided to save money by pretending he had already been to see the doctor once before.

"Here I am again, Doc," he breezed as he sauntered into the office.

"I'm afraid I don't remember your face," replied the doctor. "But how are you feeling?"

"I don't feel much better," complained the pincy-penny.

"Then continue the prescription I gave you last time for a few more weeks. And that'll be two dollars please!"

Lady of the house: "Have you given the goldfish fresh water today?"

Maid: "No, Ma'am. They haven't finished what I gave them yesterday."

"Those people in the apartment above won't give me a minute's peace. They were still up at two o'clock this morning—jumping on the floor and making a terrible noise."

"Kept you awake eh?"

"Well, not exactly. I was still up practicing my saxophone."

Mrs. Kersey: "How do you feel after your ride on the horse?"

John: "I didn't know anything filled with hay could be so hard."

Mr. Winfrey: "This sentence, My father had money, is in the past tense. What you you be using if you said, My father has money?"

Anna: "Pretense."

Bachelor: "What an adorable baby you have, Madam."

Proud Mother: "Thank you. Do you know, he's only seventeen months old and has been walking for nearly nine months now!"

Bachelor: "Really! He must be exhausted.

Isn't it about time he sat down?"

Young girl: "What beautiful fresh flowers you brought me! Why I believe there is a little dew on them."

Boy: "Yes, there is, but I promise to pay it off tomorrow."

Dot: "Why can't a bicycle walk?"

Peggy: "I give up. Why?"

Dot: "It's two-tired."

Mr. Demon was speeding along the highway one day when a state trooper caught up with him and made him pull over to the side of the road.

"What's the meaning of exceeding the speed limit," asked the trooper.

"Well you see," replied the driver, "My brakes are bad, and I was in a hurry to get home before I had an accident."

Man (standing in the middle of a busy street): "Officer, can you tell me how to get to the hospital? A carpenter was being examined in court."

Policeman: "Sure. Just stand where you are."

Jean: "I've changed my mind."

Thomas: "Well, does it work any better now?"

Dad: "Who was your mother talking to for an hour at the door?"

John: "It was Mrs. Smith. She said she didn't have time to come in."

After applying for citizenship in the United States?

He answered all the questions correctly as to the name of the president and capital. Then the official asked, "Could you become President of the United States?"

"No," was the reply.

"Why not?" persisted the official.

"You please excuse," begged the carpenter, "but I am very busy right now repainting houses!"
